works grate with nolo vr and psvr.. Works absolutely great so far! I tried hopelessly to get Trinus working but that never worked well at all.

Setting iVRy up was a simple process. I still have some testing to do but so far the performance is fine and everything seems to run nicely. Sadly a lot of VR games really require you to at least use a controller to control the game UI so my next step is getting the Move controllers to work. Would be great if that could somehow be implemented in iVRy some day.. Just absolutely amazing!

I've tried a few of these apps, to get my iPhone XS to act as a VR screen with Google Cardboard (or equivalent) headset - this is by far the best. Easy to setup, works flawlessly over WiFi and wired USB connection (via iTunes, I recommend this method, as you can really jack the performance and quality settings up).

I use it with a Google Cardboard (literally!) headset from Amazon, and my favoured racing sims work perfectly - Project CARS2, Assetto Corsa etc. I can easily read the text on HUD's and car clocks, and the fps is smooth.

I had one problem in setup (my Bonjour service was not running on Windows 10) - I emailed support on a Sunday afternoon, and got a reply an hour later, that sorted it. Top class service.

I also have a PSVR headset, so I reckon I will be trying the driver for that as well! (UPDATE - purchased this as well, and it also works flawlessly, even better!. Why is the VR application quitting itself and repeating that it says it is already running despite I clicked once?. quite possibly the best thing I've bought on steam for ages, Allowed me to use my PSVR headset after it gathering dust for 6 months next to my PS4, bit of fiddling around to get it working (I didnt read the setup instructions properly), But once I followed the instructions properly it worked.

Takes a bit of time to learn what everything does in SteamVR to configure for each game, But 7 hours on Elite Dangerous yesterday without eye-strain, headaches or nausea, I am finally sold on this "VR thing".

thank you :). Just absolutely amazing!

I tried to use Trinus and had absolutely no luck. I gave this a shot and I also had problems, however I reached out to the dev and they were very helpful and we got it working pretty quickly. It works and it is much easier to set up than Trinus.. This is truest what dreams are made of, I never thought my iPhoneX would ever be able to replicate a true be headset for my pc.

Also the publisher is very helpful with any problems.
